DMS International announces new division – DMS Wireless

DMS International announces the formation of its new wireless broadband products division: DMS Wireless. DMS Wireless will manufacture and supply antennas and related products for wireless technology applications. This new division is poised to respond to the explosive growth in the wireless broadband industry.

DMS Wireless will supply to distributors and OEM companies products, which focus on wireless communications. Tim Heinrichs, CEO, DMS Wireless, states “now DMS Wireless has the opportunity with its distribution network to supply standard and custom antennas for many frequencies and multiple applications which are now available from one manufacturer”. “Distributors can rely on the supply of grid antennas, omni directional, yagi directional and panel directional antennas that have excellent field performance and reliability.”

The vast array of antenna products available from DMS Wireless gives distributors one stop supply for wireless broadband antennas resulting in savings for volume purchase and volume shipments.
